

Prejudices in Spain

Index

- Photo of the communities
- Andalusia
- Basque Country
- Galicia
- Canary Islands
- Catalonia
- Spain's mainland from the point of view of Canarians

Photo of the communities

Andalusia

It's located in the south of the Iberian peninsula and the political capital is Sevilla. It's the most populated autonomous community of Spain.

Andalusia

The Andalusians have a reputation for always being partying and making others laugh. When they talk about things they tend to distort reality, increasing it. People from Spain usually think that Andalusian people are lazy. They usually are hospitable, religious, superstitious and generous.

Basque Country

The Basque Country is an autonomous community in northern Spain. The political capital is Vitoria. Of the Basques there are two generalized prejudices, that they all are separatist and tough people.

They are hard, frank, robust, lovers of their land, separatists, gross and they never laugh. A possible explanation for this, if it is true, is that traditional Basque sports stand out for being very physical, for the need to use quite a lot of force.

On the other hand, the fact that they are separatists comes from political issues due to the nationalist thoughts of a part of the population.

Galicia

Galicia is an autonomous community of Spain and historic nationality under Spanish law. It's Located in the north-west of the Iberian Peninsula. The political capital is Santiago de Compostela, in the province of A Coruña.

Galicians are considered closed, distrustful, indecisive, superstitious and traditionalists.

Canary Islands

The Canary Islands is a Spanish archipelago and the southernmost autonomous community of Spain located in the Atlantic Ocean, 100 kilometres west of Morocco at the closest point. The seven main islands are Tenerife, Fuerteventura, Gran Canaria, Lanzarote, La Palma, La Gomera and El Hierro.

People often think that Canarian people are lazy and calm. It's thought that we like to spend time on the beach and take things too calmly.

Catalonia

Catalonia is a Spanish autonomous community, considered a historical nationality, located in the northeast of the Iberian Peninsula. Its capital is the city of Barcelona.

The Catalans have always had the reputation of being stingy. Currently, the separatists label is added to this, and also a certain reputation of unfriendly. In some areas of Spain, prejudice against Catalans has increased instead of decreasing.

Spain's mainland from the point of view of Canarians

Mainland Spaniards are the "peninsulares" but when they are arrogant or nasty the Canary Islanders call them "godos" - Goths-, a pejorative nickname given in the 19th Century to Mainland Spaniards who tried to impress Canarians and acted in the presumption that they were members of the old Castilian aristocracy and direct descendants from the Gothic Kings of the 6th and 7th Centuries.

