

Craig says his "problems are less dramatic" than others. Do you agree or disagree?

In what ways have the people responsible for Craig failed him?

Bad parenting

not understand him

not listening to him

They didn't pay his feelings enough attention.

Not caring enough

Lack of empathy

Emotional support

abandoning him

pressure

In what ways have the people responsible for Craig failed him?

not understanding him

Lack of care

not enough attention

They didn't care for him

having unfair expectations towards him

Parenting

parents were a stress factor for him

his parents

Bullying

In what ways have the people responsible for Craig failed him?

Pressured him to do things he didnt really want

Wanting him to be perfect

Craig changes his mind and wants to go home. Do you think this is a good idea? Why or why not?

.

;))

No, because problems shouldn't be compared

;))

not a good idea

Not a good idea, because he can't get help at home

No, because he does need help

No

No, he wouldn't learn that much from being only there for a little time

Craig changes his mind and wants to go home. Do you think this is a good idea? Why or why not?

No, because he has to understand why do they feel that way no because he failed them just as the people in his life have failed him (didn't try to understand them at all)

No. Because each problem is completely different and must be healed differently

Hamsters

He sees others with more serious problems, then his are getting less important

Everybody's own problems are the biggest problems and he still needed care. SO it was not a good idea

He doesn't want to admit to himself that he has problems

no because he can get help there

It's not a good idea, because he should take on his problems instead of abandoning the therapy and feeling bad

Humble says, "if you don't open up you're not going to heal."

What problems or worries do teenagers typically try to hide?

Emotional feelings

love problems

stress

Feeling depressed

social anxiety

Problems within their families anxiety about school or friends

deep emotions and thoughts

Problems in the family

Humble says, "if you don't open up you're not going to heal."

What problems or worries do teenagers typically try to hide?

pressure from society

Learning problems

Peer pressure to do drugs and stuff they don't want to do from friends

family issues

self confidence

Lack of confidence

insecurities

Loveline

Problems that could make them look weak

Humble says, "if you don't open up you're not going to heal."
What problems or worries do teenagers typically try to hide?

Insecurities about myself

not feeling like you fit

Depression

Craig calls his worries about the future “cycling” What are some good ways to stop the cycle?

Taking a breather 👍

to live in the moment

step out of it

Break the routine

Carpe diem

Understand that not everything is connected meditate, and just breathe, calm down

Having a break

find some activities that switch off his mind

Craig calls his worries about the future "cycling" What are some good ways to stop the cycle?

Stand for himself

Take on the problems once and for all hard question

try a d focus on one thing <3

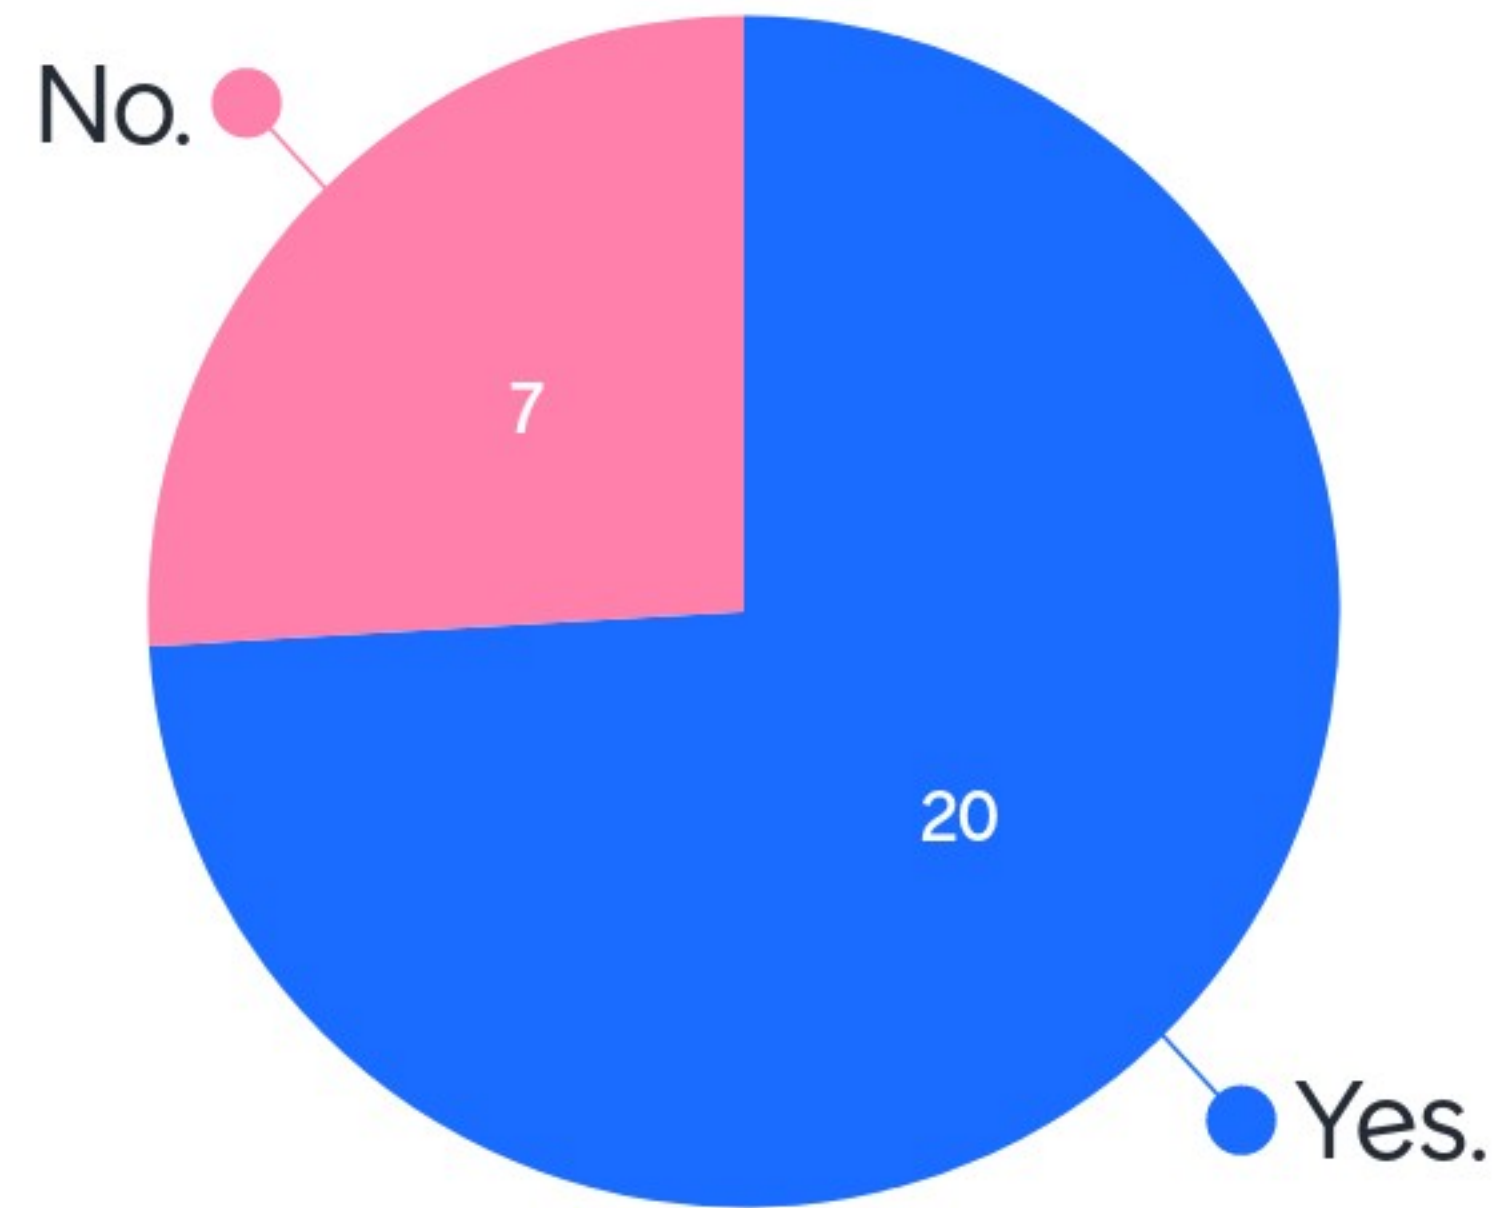

journal

Asking myself, is this worth the worrying

Do you ever cycle like this?

Do you think Craig would be happier in a less demanding school or are the pressures teens face always the same?

Who helps Craig?

the man from hangover
zach the doctor
the bearded guy
the girl bobby nia
doctor hamster noelle
galifianakis that guy

Who does Craig help?

At the end of the film, Craig says he's "ready to handle it"— meaning his problems. Do you agree or disagree?

